

Basil

LOOK CLOSELY: Basil stems are square, like other mint-family plants.

BIG LEAVES: Basil leaves are shiny and can be green or purple.

Basil is in the mint family. Explore with a grown-up.

I met
BASIL!

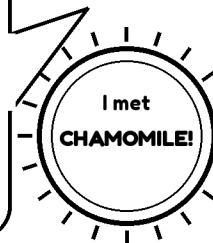

Explore plants with a grown-up.

Chamomile

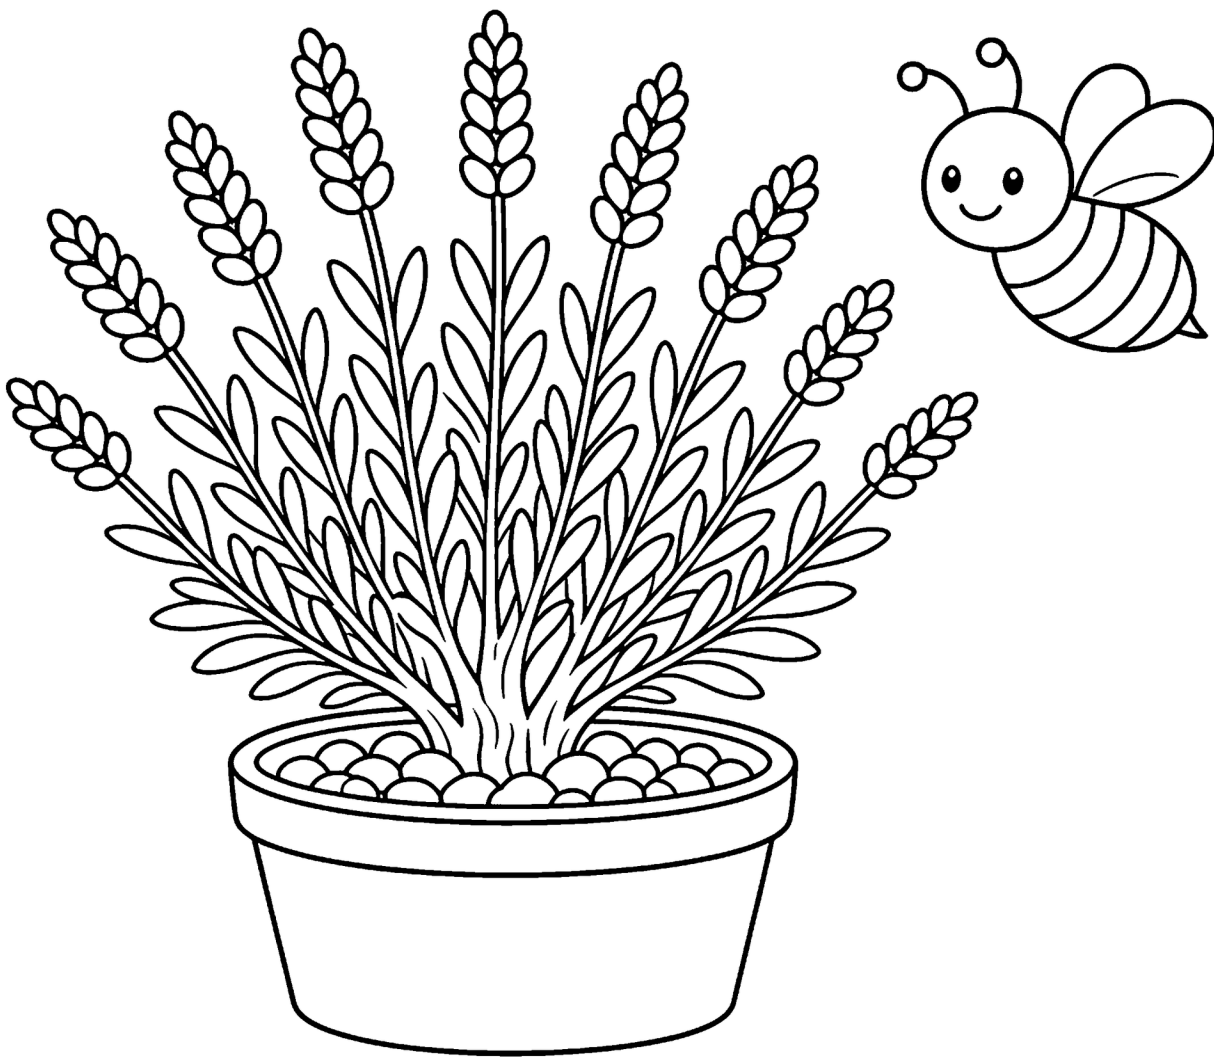

LOOK CLOSELY: Chamomile flowers look like tiny daisies, with white petals around a yellow middle.

WORD FUN: Its name comes from Greek words meaning "earth apple."
Chamomile is in the daisy family. Some people are allergic to daisy-family plants, so explore with a grown-up.

Explore plants with a grown-up.

Lavender

LOOK CLOSELY: Lavender has purple flower spikes and silvery leaves.

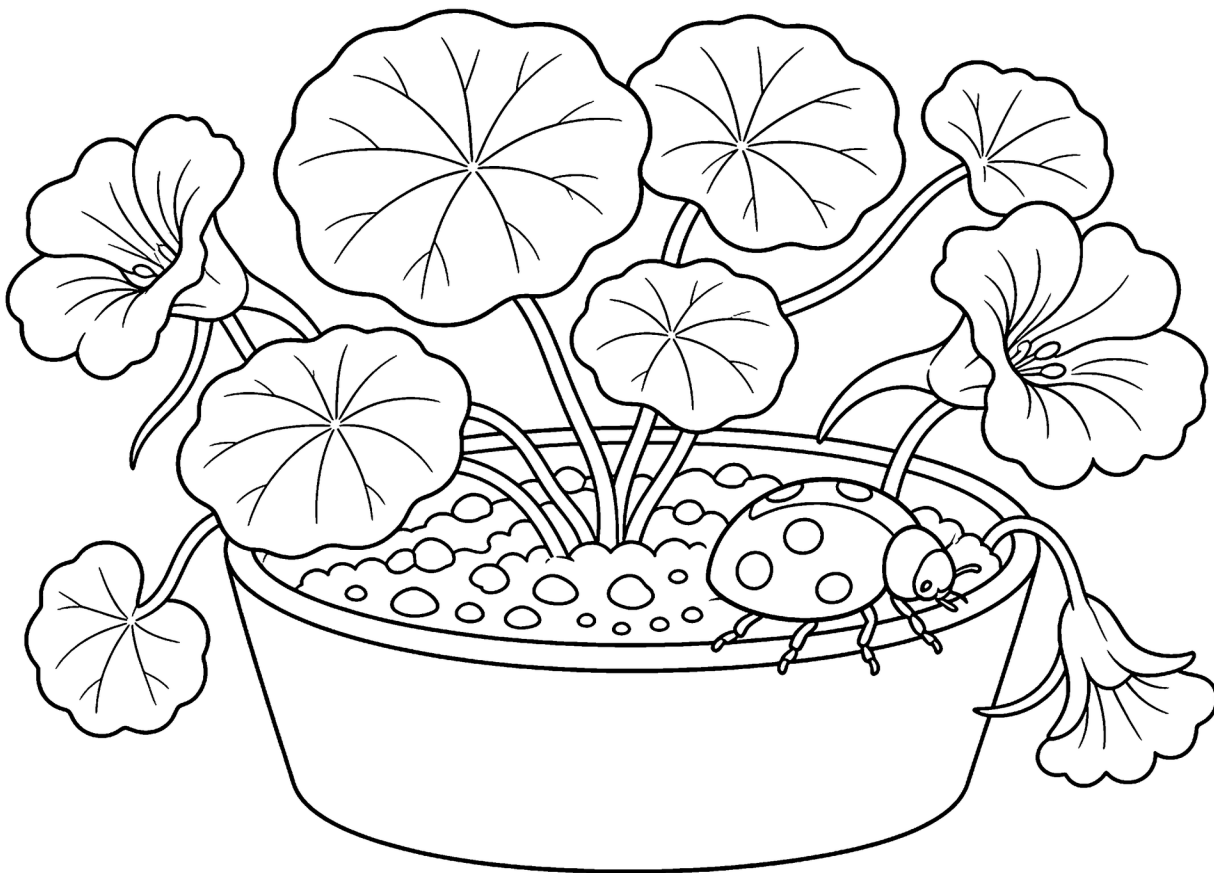

BEE MAGNET: Bees love to visit lavender flowers.

Lavender is in the mint family. Explore with a grown-up.

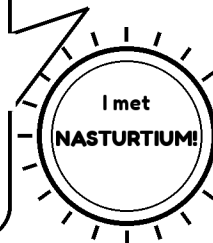

Explore plants with a grown-up.

Nasturtium

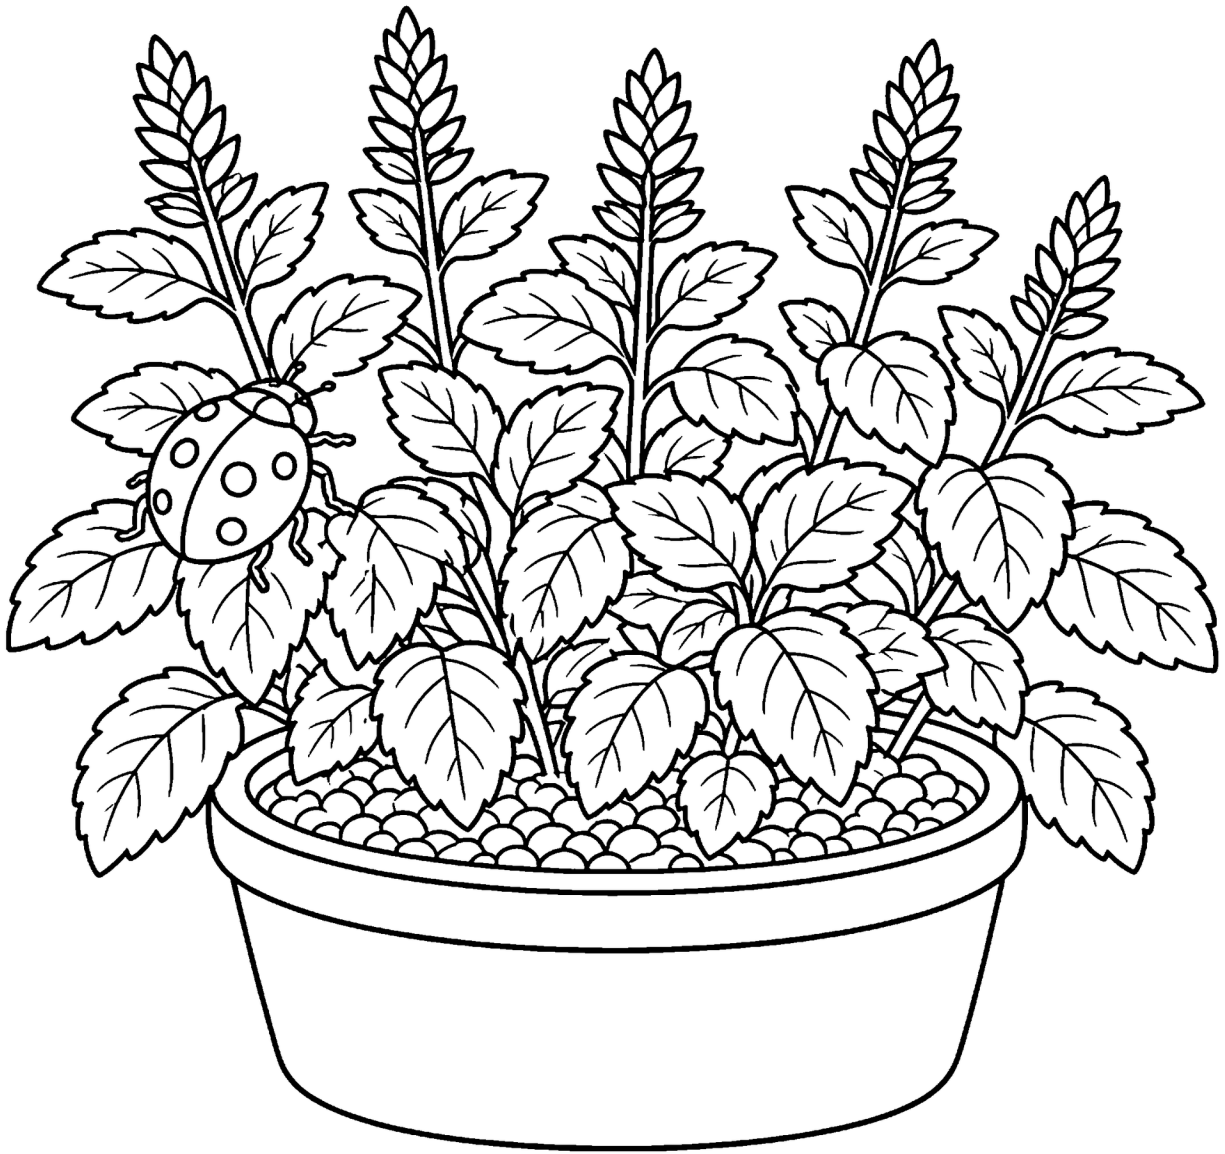

LOOK CLOSELY: Nasturtium leaves are round like little umbrellas, with the stem attached in the middle.

FLOWER COLORS: Its flowers can be red, orange, yellow, pink or cream. Nasturtium is a trailing or climbing garden flower. Explore with a grown-up.

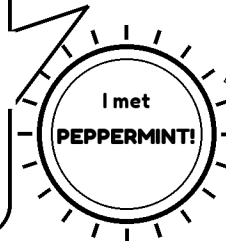

Explore plants with a grown-up.

Peppermint

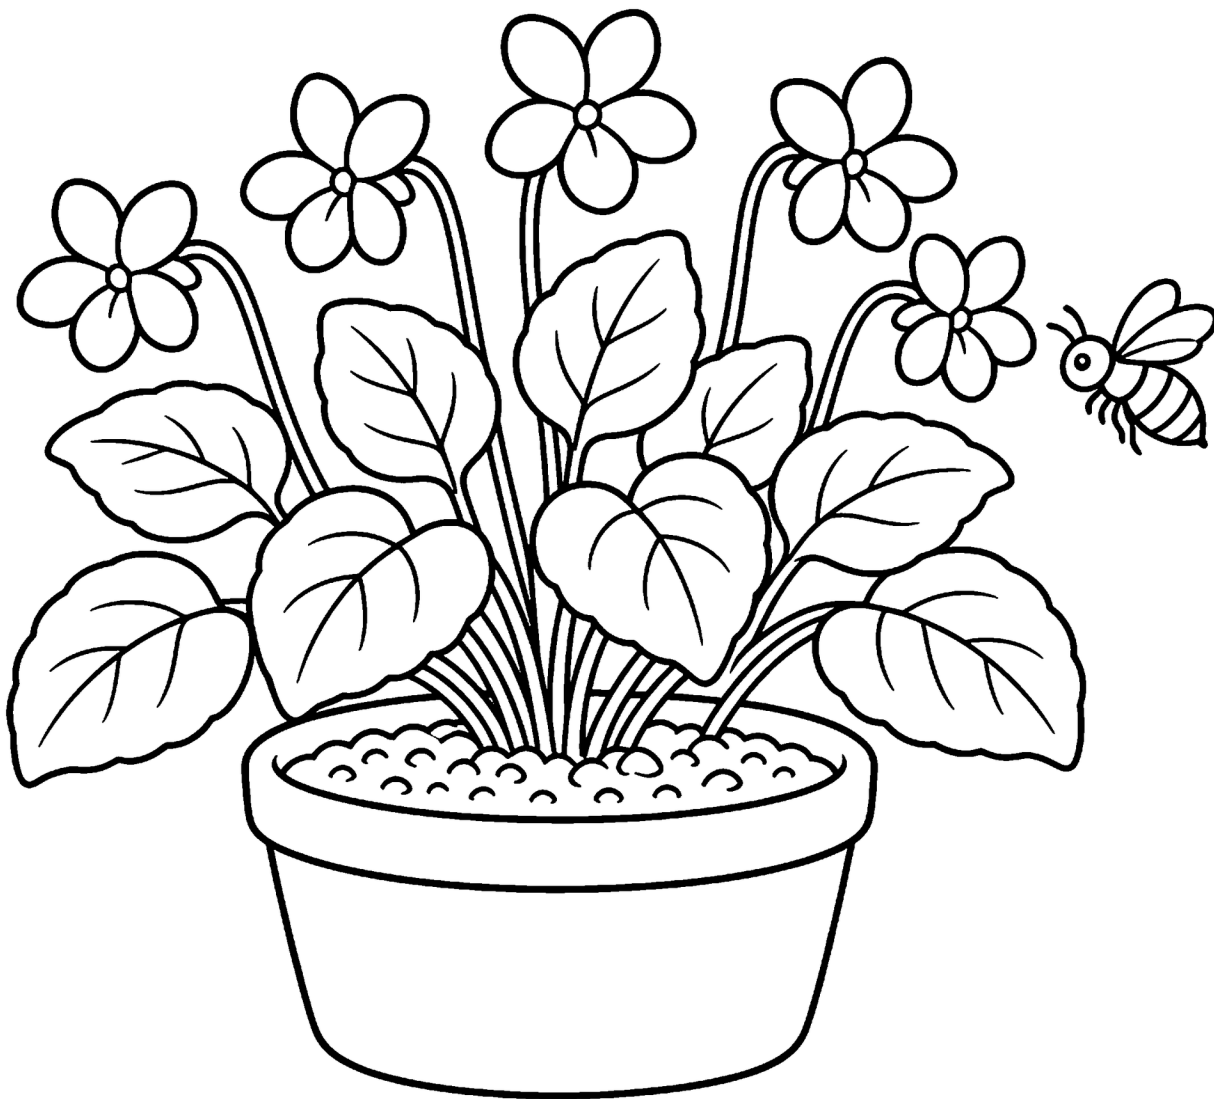

MINT MIX: Peppermint is a mix of two other mints: watermint and spearmint.

SPREADER: Mint spreads fast, so many gardeners grow it in a pot. Peppermint is in the mint family. Explore with a grown-up.

Explore plants with a grown-up.

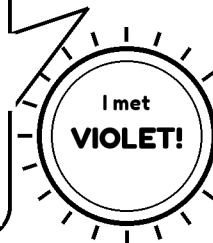

Violet

LOOK CLOSELY: Violets have heart-shaped leaves.

SPRING FLOWER: Sweet violets bloom in spring.

Sweet violets are flowers you can grow in a garden. Explore with a grown-up.

Explore plants with a grown-up.